About the USC School of Social Work
The USC School of Social Work is recognized as one of the most innovative in the nation. Our research environment is vibrant, interdisciplinary, and highly supported. We provide intellectual leadership in the areas of behavioral health; child and family systems; aging; organizations and policy transformation; social work in non-profit, governmental and private sector contexts; housing insecurity; serious mental illness; and military health. Our transformative approach to virtual instruction is recognized as groundbreaking. Our commitment to advancing the science of social work has generated a new dialogue throughout the profession.

In 2015, the School embarked on a process of revising its curriculum and developing a departmental structure. Although highly collaborative, we now organize students and faculty into one of three social work departments: (1) Adults and Healthy Aging; (2) Children, Youth and Families; and (3) Community, Organization and Business Innovation. We are also home to the USC School of Social Work Department of Nursing. To learn more about our Departments and School, please visit our website at: http://sowkweb.usc.edu

Qualifications Sought
For all tenure track ranks, a PhD is required. We expect evidence of the potential for significant scholarly activity, external research support, and the ability to collaborate across disciplines. Applicants with exceptional credentials in a variety of expertise will be considered; those with post-doctoral experience are preferred. We are particularly interested in faculty with expertise in child welfare, juvenile justice, military science, integrated care, and Alzheimer’s research. In keeping with our focus on diversity and global issues, we seek faculty who have strong scholarship profiles involving Latino, Asian-Pacific Islander, and/or African-American populations.

Application Procedure
Please submit: (1) a letter of application outlining research and scholarly interests; (2) a writing sample; (3) evidence of teaching performance (4) a curriculum vita; and (5) contact information for three academic references.

Only online applications are accepted and must be submitted at: http://jobs.usc.edu/postings/69658

Applications will be reviewed as they are received, and early application is strongly encouraged. The priority deadline for applicants is November 15th, 2016.

Applicants will receive written notification from the Search Committee Co-Chairs, Emily Putnam-Hornstein & Jeremy T. Goldbach when the file is complete. Please email the search staff coordinator, Matt Robison at mattrobi@usc.edu in the event of any difficulties with our online system.

USC is an equal-opportunity educator and employer, proudly pluralistic and firmly committed to providing equal opportunity for outstanding persons of every race, color, gender, creed, and background. The University particularly encourages women, members of underrepresented groups, veterans and individuals with disabilities to apply. USC will make reasonable accommodations for qualified individuals with known disabilities unless doing so would result in undue hardship. Further information is available by contacting uschr@usc.edu